SPOKEN TUTORIALS PROJECT

Ministry of Human Resource Development, Govt. of India, has launched Spoken Tutorial Project for Free and Open Source Software for promoting the use of free and open source software, enhanced accessibility of IT Education, expansion of computer literacy, and increase in employability.

IIT Bombay has developed the project in which audio-video tutorials (10-15 min duration) have been created on each topic to elucidate the use of free and open source software. Tutorials have been developed in English and twenty-two other Indian languages, which cover all branches of science, engineering, management, law, commerce etc.

It is a matter of immense pleasure to announce that in association with IIT-Bombay, now these tutorials have been made available for our students. In this continuation, team of below-mentioned faculty members has been constituted for the smooth conduct of activity:

- | | |
|--|--------------------------|
| a) Prof. Mahesh Basantani (Institute of Bio-Sciences & Technology): | Coordinator |
| b) Dr. Bineet K. Gupta (Institute of Technology): | Asst. Coordinator |
| c) Ms. Noopur Srivastava (Institute of Technology): | Member |

All the students are encouraged to learn free and open source software using these tutorials. These tutorials are very useful as can be used as self-study tools, without seeking help of anyone.
